Parliamentary Articulation

The Joint Parliamentary Council (Coap) works to defend industry interests by influencing the decisions of Congress and the Legislative Assembly for the development of Rio Grande do Sul.

Its activities are aimed at strengthening institutional relationships with the Federal and State Legislature by providing technical and corporate information and monitoring the progress of bills that are of interest to the industrial sector, as well as proposing legislation and standards for state development. It is recognized as the representative body for industry in Congress and the Legislative Assembly because of the importance, reliability, quality and credibility of the proposals and information provided.
